

Project description (max 2000 words)

The project description must contain at least:

1. Country selection. The country selection is guided by the so-called DAC list (OECD country classification). See the valid countries published here: <https://openaid.se/find-aid/countries-and-regions>. However, the country must not be listed on the Ministry of Foreign Affairs' advice <https://www.regeringen.se/ud-avrader/>. NB! This applies to the following types of advice: "advice against non-essential travel throughout the country", "all travel throughout the country", "encourages all Swedes to leave the country/part of the country". In addition, the MFS committee must assess the applicant's safety. The study will be conducted in a country where Sweden conducts development cooperation and in line with one or more strategies of relevance within the Swedish development cooperation in the host country in question.
2. A timetable for the fieldwork, corresponding to at least eight weeks of continuous stay in the developing country. Field studies in other countries do not fit within the minimum requirement of 6 weeks (42 days).
3. Proposal for an alternative approach, both regarding the date of the trip, but also regarding the methodology for the field study. The alternative arrangement must account for how the applicant intends to handle changes that may occur both before and during the trip.
4. A brief description of how accommodation is planned on site in the country of stay.
5. A clear purpose and description of the field study, which will demonstrate a clear relevance to the global goals for sustainable development, Agenda 2030, and the government's thematic priorities according to the new reform agenda for development assistance, as well as to the course(s) the applicant has studied/is studying.
6. Choice of investigation methodology to carry out the field study and the degree project. Also discuss any ethical challenges that your field study will have and how these challenges can be addressed.
